WEBSITE GROWTH AUDIT

Dentist in the Park

dentistinthepark.com.au | Bondi Junction, Sydney, Australia | Prepared for Dr Brendan Quill

A Bondi Junction practice with a 5.0 Google rating is a strength, but booking buttons that only request a callback and pricing silence appear to cost you patients.

What I found on your website

What I saw	What it costs you	The fix
Book a Visit, Book an Appointment and Meet the practice appear to link to the same contact page, which appears to be a callback request ('we'll call you back to confirm a time').	The page says patients can request an appointment online, but they only leave a number, so some will go to a clinic that books instantly.	A real online booking calendar and buttons that match their destination.
All 21 'Read on Google' links appear to point to the same Maps address, and review names appear run together ('Veronicaon Google').	Visitors cannot read the reviews you worked to earn, and the formatting looks careless.	Linked and clean review cards.
The text 'Your browser does not support the video tag' and 'Don't fill this out if you're human' appear visibly on the page.	Leftover technical text makes the page look unfinished.	Hidden technical fields and a working hero.
The page promises 'clear pricing before any treatment begins' but appears to show no price ranges, and the 2,500+ members figure appears unexplained.	Patients comparing clinics cannot judge value, and unexplained numbers weaken trust.	Treatment price guides and a clear membership explanation.

What your new website will do for Dentist in the Park
