WEBSITE GROWTH AUDIT

PropertyZen Estate Agents

propertyzen.co.uk | London, United Kingdom | Prepared for Marco and Marina

Twenty years of local experience is a strength, but a mailto only valuation request and no visible phone number appear to cost you valuations.

What I found on your website

What I saw	What it costs you	The fix
The free valuation call to action appears to be Click here linking to an email address, with a stray question mark, not a form.	Owners must open their email app to ask, and many will not.	An on page valuation form with name, address and phone.
No phone number appears on the homepage, and the only address shown appears to be a central London registered office while you cover South West London and Surrey.	Local owners cannot call you quickly or see you are nearby.	Visible phone, local office address and a coverage map.
Click here appears three times for three different actions, and the image gallery appears twice.	Vague links and repeated blocks make the page feel unpolished.	Specific button labels and a clean layout.
The award banner and accreditation logos appear to have no detail, and no reviews or sales figures appear.	Without proof, owners compare you to agents who show it.	Review scores, sales results and short explanations of memberships.
